No. 43 gives a clear reading and has the characteristic mint mark which appears on the ill-struck specimen and also on coins Nos. 55-8. <sup>1</sup> Coins of the Ilahi years 40 and 45 of Ahmadabad present a difficulty. The form of the arabic numeral 5 (۵) so nearly approaches the form for 0 that the two would ordinarily be indistinguishable but this coin shows that during the years 40 and part of 41 a peculiar form of the numeral 4 (۴) was used. Unfortunately in this collection there are no coins of the year 41 with this form on which the unit figure 1 distinct—but I think the following considerations substantiate the claim. M 13 appears in this Collection for the first time on coin No. 162 41 Bahman and continues to the end of the series. With it apparently occurs for the first time the ordinary form of the numeral 4 (۴) Nos. ۲۰۹-۲۱۰ have both the mint mark and the numeral. I therefore assign them to the year 45. Moreover the style and ornaments point to the same conclusion; the additional M 20 appears on 45 Isfandarmuz (No. 185) and is continued on 46 Ardabilihihi and Tir (Nos. 220-221a). Although I am convinced that Nos. 223-227 belong to the years 40 and 41 I have placed them at the end of the series as the unit figures are indistinct.

<sup>1</sup> This coin has the mint cut off, but I feel convinced it is of Āgra mint from (1) the style, (2) the similarity of mint-mark between this and Nos 289 and 291, and (3) the similarity in arrangement of reverse marginal legends to those of preceding types. For Nos 291, 292 of Ahmadābād type see Col Vest's article Num Suppl J A S B, No XI, p 321 but I do not attribute his coin of 984 of this type to the Āgra mint. The type apparently ceases in 982

<sup>1</sup> Col Vost in his article N B. XI p. 223 took the stroke before لہر to be the tail of the ب of عرب but it is obvious from a specimen in the possession of Mr Panna Lal (cf. N B. XXVI, § 160, p. 493) that the word is انهروالہ and that it is preceded by the word در سر. Dām are known of the year 934 with سہرتن and Dr G. P. Taylor had one of 943 with the full mint name انهروالہ پتن. Anahrwāla is a variant by metathesis of Anahwāra, the old name of the town. For this mint-name cf. Whitehead, Mint Towns, p. 433, and N B. XXV, § 14<sup>1</sup> p. 222, also Numismatic Society of India, Proceedings, 1914 p. 2.

<sup>2</sup> The reading Barār for this mint-name was adopted by numismatists in India Cf Proceedings of the Annual Meeting, Numismatic Society of India, 1913, p 3, § 13, but some coins have quite recently come to light which suggest that the original reading was بیرارتہ the correct one

<sup>1</sup> I assign this coin to Akbar on the authority of C. J. A. S. B. (p. 15). But on the reverse of this coin there appears to be a date which may be part of the date for which it was struck, viz. 977. The style of the coin is like that of the 1042-1043 coins.

Four other rupees of this and another type are known—two are in the British Museum. On these coins cf. N.S., J.A.S.B. XX, § 116 and VI § 44 also P.M.C., p. 214 note. I think the numeral in the left corner of the obverse area of the above coin, forms part of the date 17.

Rebelled early in A. H. 1063.

Defeated in IX, 1070 (May 1660).

Died in 1071 (1660-1661).

<sup>1</sup> Mr. A. Master in his article on the 'Post-Mughal Coins of Ahmadābād', N S XXII, § 125, p 164, has shown that Bedār Bakht's coins of Ahmadābād, of No 5300 in this Catalogue, are of the Shāhjahānābād type and were probably struck in Dehlī. This coin and No 4194, a copper coin, are likewise of the Ahmadābād type, and, being struck in 1201 and 1202 respectively, show that Shāh 'Ālam II used this means of asserting his claim to the important town of Ahmadābād previously to the insurrection in which Bedār Bakht was proclaimed emperor, and therefore the latter was only following a precedent

<sup>1</sup> These nine coins should of course have preceded No. 4780 but were with the exception of the last four added to the Collection after the main part of the Catalogue had been written. With only coins of 26 R. and no hijri date it was impossible to tell their position. The clue is now supplied by 4851<sup>a</sup>, and, especially 4851<sup>b</sup>. These coins were minted by the Nawāb of Awadh, and with all the 26 asa coins were struck almost certainly at Lakhnau. The type is known in contemporary records as the Lucknow rupee. These coins Nos. 4851<sup>a</sup> &c., are the successors of 4563<sup>a</sup>, &c., of the Hahābād mint.

P 422 note, last line. The statement that coins Nos. 4851 a &c., are the successors of 4562 a &c. of the Ilahābād mint I now find to be incorrect. What appears to have happened was this. When the East India Company took over charge of the Benāres mint in 1776 (1190 A.H.) for two years till 1192 they retained the regnal year 17 alone on the reverse of I.M.C., vol. iii Nos. (2375-2377). From 1193 begins the double regnal year series 17/21 &c. During the same period the Nawāb Asafu-d-daula was coining in Lakhnau rupees of a similar type but with changing regnal years and the characteristic flag symbol on the reverse, cf. B.M.C., Nos. 1136-1137 of the eighteenth and nineteenth years, and the later coins, Nos. 4851 a &c., in this Catalogue. During part of this period, at least 1190-1192 and in 1194 cf. coins Nos. 4562 a sqq., the Nawāb was also coining at Ilahābād. Coins Nos. 1136 and 1138-1141 in the B.M.C. of a third type with the royal umbrella symbol instead of the flag are difficult to explain.

<sup>1</sup> The same correction should be made on the obverse of Nos. 1804 1812 1814, 1865 1877 2108
